Ordered Miss Rogers Out.

The story is that Miss Rogers had been a tenant of the St. George for a year, and announced her willingness, the first of this month for another year. But early last month she was greatly disturbed by a solree in an addoining apartment. She made a spirited complaint about the function to Agent complaint about the function to Agent Coleman.

She said things to Mr. Coleman that made him very angry. When he translated them to Mr. Robinson, he was also exceeding wroth and served a dispossess notice upon the handsome young woman.

Miss Rogers ignored the notice. She said she had a verbal contract that entitled her to remain in the St. George for another year. Nor would she apologize for her remarks about the January soiree. In fact, she spoke very frankly of other soirees and, in a general way, criticised various of her neighbors.

"In the horse, the cow, the wild animals generally you see no chrone debility, no nerve exhaustion. It is because their stomachs are in sound condition. They are not shut up all day with little or no exercise, and they do not stuff themselves with food when their bodies have not had enough work to justify it. The civilized races have endoing this for years, and look at the result—most of people are half sick. They don't know really what is the matter with them. I have talked with thousands in various cities during the past two years, and few indeed knew what their trouble was. One said nervousness, another kidney trouble, another liver complaint, or constipation, or heart trouble or lung trouble, another liver complaint, or constipation, or heart trouble or lung trouble, another liver complaint or constipation, or heart trouble or lung trouble, another liver complaint is for all of these diseases at various times. A very common complaint is chronic fit health is due to stomach trouble. I know that few indeed can be ill with a digestive apparatus in perfect condition. My treatment gets the stomach in shape in from four to six weeks' time. It positively does nothing else, yet I have had more women, men too for total matter, come to thank me than I have time to talk with who claim that they were 'nervous wrecks' before taking my treatment.
